Fifty years composed of innumerable months, days, hours and seconds—fifty years marking miraculous milestones—fifty years evidencing God's grace—this is the Northwestern story. To preserve the memory of the passing years and to present the challenge of the years yet to come, this 1952 Scroll has been brought into being. Malachi sensed, too, the value of such a record when he wrote: "Then they that feared the Lord spoke often one to another and the Lord hearkened, and heard it, and the Book of Remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon His name."

FROM THE BEGINNING

BY MRS. W. B. RILEY

To rightly evaluate the Northwestern Schools, it is necessary to go back to their inception. Those who were acquainted with the founder knew that he never planned to be an educator or to establish an educational institution. By predilection and by every native ability, he was destined for the law courts.

But God—God had other plans for this young man. From childhood he had heard the Gospel preached in "Big Bone Church," so called because bones of mastadons were found nearby. Again and again the heart of that youth was challenged by the Gospel presentation, but not until some time later, after they moved a few miles away to the town of Dallasburg, at 17 years of age, did he make a definite profession of faith in Christ as his own personal Saviour. In the autumn of 1878 he was baptized in Cephas van Daren's pond. In that very experience there seemed to be a premonition of his future profession. The thing that stood in the way of his decision for Christ was the fear that it might upset his life plans. But after thoroughly counting the cost, at a day meeting, attended by about 100 people, he walked forward alone and surrendered his life and will to Jesus Christ.

His ministry motive was the salvation of men. Bathed as his boyhood had been in the waves of the warm evangelical revival started by the Wesleys and Whitfield and carried to greater heights in America under Finney; baptized in his youth in the evangelical fervor of a Spurgeon and a Moody, he knew no university doubts about God; he had no biological quibbles about the virgin birth; he entertained no doubts as to the verbal, plenary inspiration of the Word. When it said "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son hath not life," he believed it.

No lad was ever more determined to get an education. Food was plentiful on the Riley farm but cash was scarce. In desperation, in the spring of 1879, young Riley rented his father's farm, promising to pay all the expenses and $1,000 when the crop was sold. It was a sum the farm had never produced but the youth decided to test himself and the promises of God. God honored his faith and he cleared the unimaginable sum of $1,700. This permitted him to pay his father the promised $1,000 and enough besides to begin the coveted education at the normal school at Valparaiso, Indiana. He used to say that his board consisted of corn syrup and crackers for breakfast and supper, with a cheap meat dinner at noon; but what could he expect for $1.45 a week?

In the spring of 1881 he had accomplished sufficient to secure a teacher's certificate and later in that summer procured a school in Possum Ridge, the savings from which he expected to utilize for a college education. Family illness prevented his teaching, but a friend, keenly interested in this youth, lent money enough to begin his college career. So, in the fall of 1881 he enrolled at Hanover, a Presbyterian college at Hanover, Indiana. The strictest economy characterized his college days. In June, 1885, he graduated fourth in his class, but first in debate.

He said himself, "My education and my life calling were inextricably interwoven. During the year at the normal school I was equipping myself to teach my way through college, expecting to adopt law as my permanent profession. But there was a divine voice, inaudible to the ears of others, but louder than thunder in my secret soul, telling me that my choice was wrong and that the ministry was the divine will instead. I hated the suggestion. The spirit of sport was in me and the ministry looked tame and uninviting. Moreover, I delighted in debate. To contend for the thing which appealed to me was a positive pleasure. I told the Lord more than once that if He ever intended to make a minister out of me He had started wrong; He should have made my nature different. But my arguments with Him availed me nothing. Days of all content about my choice followed each other in what seemed interminable succession, and in spite of the physical weariness with which I fell into my bed night after night, sleep refused to come. The fight was on. After some months of turmoil, at last I reluctantly said, 'I will, I will preach.' A thousand times have I thanked God for calling, and even compelling (for that is what it meant to me) and ever since the day when my roughly clothed knees were driven into the black loam of the Kentucky hillside, as I knelt between two rows of tobacco to surrender, I have never had a regret, nor have I had one doubt as to the divine will concerning my work."

When once he felt God's call to preach, he made up his mind that he would prepare himself just as effectively for that calling as he would if he were to study law. So he finished his college work and went on into the seminary.

Four brief pastorates were held until the young preacher was called to the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis. Strangely enough, a Modernist was to open the way to that field. Dr. Charles Henderson of the University of Chicago had been engaged to speak at the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis, but being unable to go, sent young

W. B. Riley, then of the Calvary Baptist Church of Chicago, to preach that Sunday.

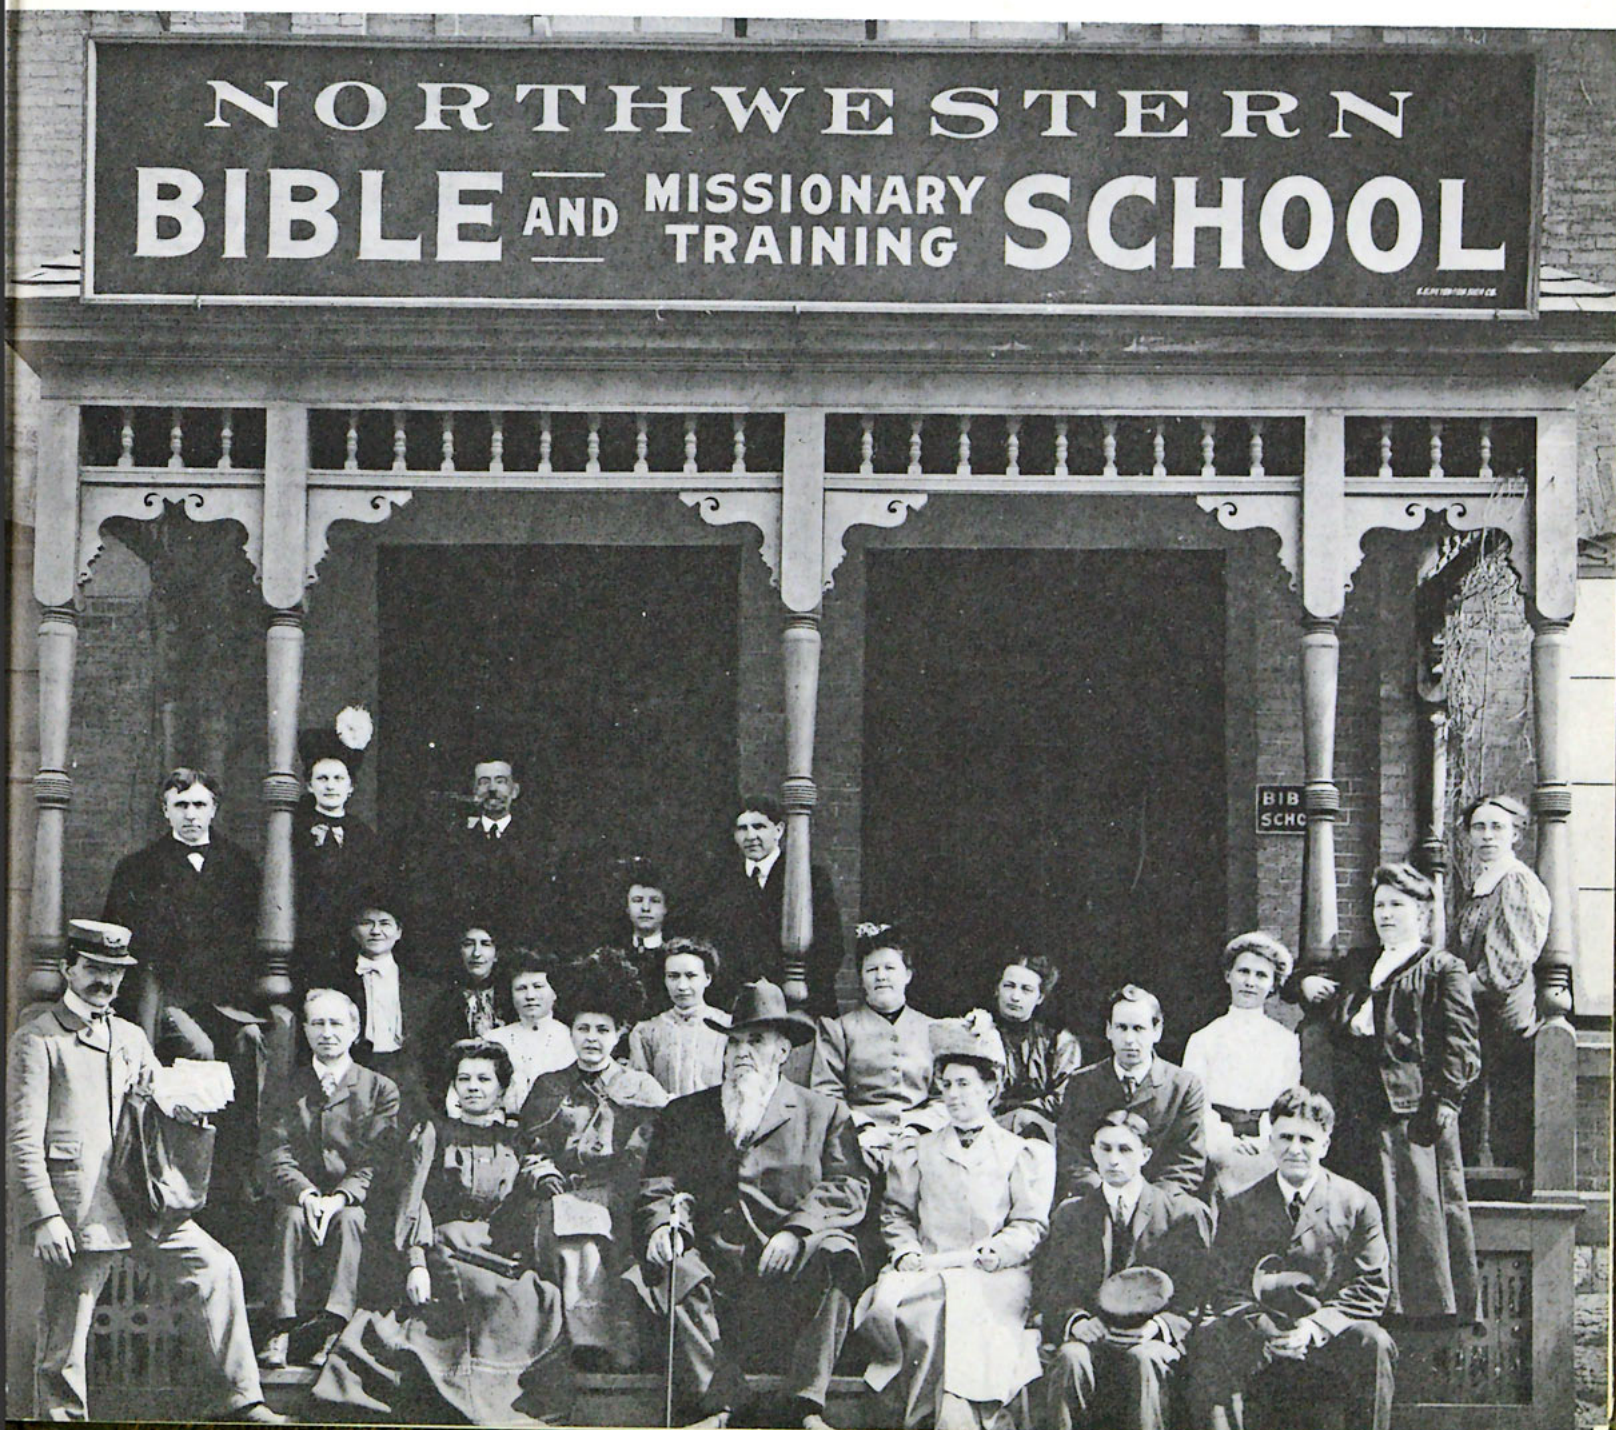

In January, 1896, young Mr. Riley arrived in Minneapolis. For some time he had been feeling that the time would come when he would settle in one place and do a life work. He wanted the heart of a growing, western city where the Devil's seat was, hoping there to carry on for the rest of his life. When this call came, he felt Minneapolis was the place for which he had been praying. He was confident that God was in it.

On March 1, 1897, this pastorate began, and from the day of his arrival he believed confidently that God had selected this place for his life work. God wonderfully blessed this Minneapolis pastorate. His God-given gift of expounding the Word attracted young and old alike.

One day, seven young men and women, who had been converted largely under his preaching, came to the youthful pastor and said, "Mr. Riley," (he was only Mr. then) "we are hungry for a further knowledge of God's Word. Would you be willing to teach us an hour a day?" He happily consented. Soon a request came for two hours. Then the group came with this plea, "If we could have three hours a day we know others who would like to join us." In a very few weeks these day classes increased to about 35 students, and without knowing it, a school was born. So on October 2, 1902, Dr. Riley called together a comparatively small company of laymen, representing different denominations, and laid before them a plan. He told them of the desire of these young people, and he said that God had increasingly laid upon his heart that there should be a training center in Minneapolis. The plan was adopted, the inauguration effected, and on October 2, 1902, the Northwestern Bible and Missionary Training School was officially born.

Dr. Riley said later that his conviction as to the necessity of such a school came from several circumstances. First of all he believed that the northwest was in dire need of Bible indoctrination. When he arrived in Minneapolis in 1897 he found among the city pastors only one who believed the pre-millennial teaching. However, for this new enterprise, Dr. Riley leaned most heavily on 5 or 6 prominent, consecrated laymen, who were his immediate and faithful backers.

Another vital reason for the inauguration of a Bible school was the fact that 90 of the 300 Baptist churches in Minnesota were without a pastor. They were small churches, some of them in rather out-of-the-way places, and at almost every meeting of the state board, another church building would be up for sale and the work at that point would be closed up. Dr. Riley was himself the product of a country church. He believed profoundly that the small country churches had contributed to the city professions their leading men and had sent into the city-church many of their outstanding laymen. He announced, therefore, in connection with inauguration of this new school, that one of the objectives would be to provide men equipped to hold these small town and country pastorates.

In the beginning, Dr. Riley called upon his assistant pastor, Rev. William Francis, a splendidly equipped and consecrated man, to share the teaching with him. With the increase in numbers the conception of the school also expanded. The president began to think of having other teachers and independent property for the school. Up to this time the classes had been held in a side room of the First Baptist Church, just underneath the pastor's study. The next important step was taken to secure the services of Dr. A. J. Frost of California, a nationally famous Bible teacher. He accepted the call and was made Dean of the school, a position which he held until he had to retire by reason of age.

Dr. Frost was a unique individual. He was about 6 feet, 4 inches tall, weighed 300 pounds, had a beard that extended down to his waist, had shoes that were number 12, so large that they had to be ordered specially, and when they came were put in the display window to attract customers. Soon after Dr. Frost came Thomas C. Horton, Charles Haddon and Dr. J. H. Sammis. It is interesting to note that these men later left Northwestern to found and build the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, commonly called Biola. Mr. Sam Robb served faithfully as treasurer from the inauguration of the school.

To begin with, the school was but a two-year course. The first graduate, Miss Annie Gooch went by appointment of the Baptist Women's Board to India as a foreign missionary. As the school slowly increased in numbers from year to year, Dr. Riley's enthusiasm for it increased. I found in one of his books the following: "If I were a man of the world and moved only in the social round or commercial realm and was compelled to face from day to day the bloodless, worn-out society of which John Watson speaks, I should well nigh lose confidence in all spiritual things. My soul renews its youth when I stand in the midst of the young men and women now studying in the Northwestern Bible and Missionary Training School, none of whom are far removed from the day of their regeneration and consecration, and the most of whom are what Gordon once called 'raw material, ready to be handmade for God.' When they pray I'm carried on the wings of their petition into the divine presence, and when they speak or sing I'm illumined by the very sparkle in their eyes and the joy of their faces—and in that illumination I see God." Yes, so convinced was Dr. Riley that just teaching about the Bible in schools and seminaries was not enough to prepare for real Christian service that he put his whole heart into it, calling men of remarkable ability to open the Word of God itself to these inquiring students. Of course the emphasis in training was on the fundamentals of the Christian faith. But Dr. Riley often said, "I never sought to plan a school—God did it."

With the vision that commonly characterized his endeavors, he entered upon this enterprise of the Northwestern Bible and Missionary Training School cramped by no narrow notions. To start with, he had to utilize the side room in the church as his classroom, but he never intended that the school should be a First Baptist Church adjunct. This was indicated by his first organization which elected a Congregationalist but a fundamentalist and pre-millennarian as president of his board, and he divided the other offices among the five denominations. Since it was not to be a First Baptist school it was desirable at the earliest possible moment to acquire for it its own property where an independent and undenominational character would be evident.

In the same block and to the northwest of Dr. Riley's church there was a piece of property owned by Mr. Harvey Abrahams which was for sale. It was learned that it could be secured for $10,000. This matter was taken to the school board, but the cost looked prohibitive to a company of people who up to that time had had to defray no expense of any sort. Dr. Riley and his associate pastor had taught without salary, and the students had paid no tuition. However, the young pastor and school president was persistent and kept the matter before his board. Real estate began to move up in Minneapolis and the next thing he knew this Abraham property was priced at $15,000. Upon it stood four houses, containing about 45 rooms in all. Dr. Riley believed that Minneapolis real estate would continue to rise and such rise would be rapid, so he went back to his board and finally induced them to vote favorably. The purchase was made and the school moved into the Abraham building in 1904—later called 6 South, and still later "Fireside." By tearing out a few partitions, dining room, kitchen, offices, classrooms, parlors, and other school requirements were met. Yes, and housing for the students too.

Just as soon as it seemed certain that this project could be carried financially, the young president cast a covetous eye upon another piece of ground which formed with this an "L," running out to Hennepin Avenue and standing right next to the public library (now occupied by Savitt Paint Co.). It had a forty foot frontage on Hennepin. This also was for sale for $10,000, but by the time the board was convinced of the desirability of purchase the price was raised to $15,000 and it was secured at that figure.

The work had now become heavier and larger. Dr. Riley conceived the idea that another superintendent, who would also be a financial man, might enable the school to meet its ever increasing cost. He found such a man, as he supposed, and induced him to accept the superintendency. He served for one year, raised no money, put the school $9,000 into debt; and all its property was in danger. Upon the resignation of this man Dr. Riley himself returned to the presidency, never again to leave it. Upon resuming his duties he sold the property on Hennepin for $24,000 and from the $9,000 profit saved old "6 South"!

As the school continued to grow and additional classroom space was a necessity, the property between "6 South" and Harmon was purchased and on it Jackson Hall was erected in 1925. For 23 years this spacious four story building was utilized through the week as headquarters for the Northwestern School—classrooms, chapel and offices.

The church and school now owned three-quarters of the block between 10th and 11th streets and Harmon Place and Hennepin Avenue. The public library took up the remaining one-fourth which was better than an ownership as it was adjacent to the school, free to the students, and kept up by the city. Thus, the location of the school was ideal. Now, however, the school was already reaching a point where it required more student housing. One day Dr. Riley called up Mr. Badger, a prominent real estate man of the city, and said to him, "Will you show me every piece you have for sale that might be a prospect for school occupancy."

He came immediately, and a number of places were viewed but pronounced unsuitable. Then he said to Dr. Riley, "I believe I have the very thing you want: namely, Lyman Court. It consists of three buildings at the corner of 15th and Harmon, across from Loring Park. They are comparatively new and beautiful. They have three stories and a basement, all high class apartments."

"Yes," was the reply, "that's what I would like to have, but it's beyond our financial possibilities." They went and looked it over and when the inspection was completed Dr. Riley said, "What do you ask for them?"

"$100,000."

"You mean to say that you'll sell the land and the buildings and the title to all three for $100,000?"

"That's exactly what I mean," replied Mr. Badger.

Dr. Riley said, "I suppose it will surprise you a bit, but I'll take them." He had learned from bitter experience the losses involved in delay and this time decided to lose no more.

Mr. Badger laughed and said, "That's fine. It's the quickest sale I've ever made."

"Yes," replied Dr. Riley, "and you haven't given me a cent up to this time. I want you to subscribe $2,000 to this building." This he did. Others immediately came to his assistance, so the following week a $10,000 payment was made on the Lyman property.

At the time when the school was born the leading restaurant in the city of Minneapolis was the Russell Coffee House. Mrs. Russell, one of the first citizens of Minneapolis, and a woman, who in her youth had served as a nurse in the Civil War and whose indomitable will had made her successful in business, visited Dr. Riley, upon whose ministry she was accustomed to wait, and offered to make him her heir. She wanted to practically adopt the young pastor as her own boy and leave her estate to him. He replied, "No, I couldn't accept that, but if you want to give it to the Northwestern Bible and Missionary Training School, I'll gladly accept it." This was done and out of the estate there came $25,000 for the school.

Some time later, on a visit to Los Angeles, Dr. Riley heard of the generosity of Mr. Charles Stimson who was especially interested in Bible training schools and went to see him. The result was that Mr. Stimson deeded to Dr. Riley, for the use of the Northwestern Bible School, property that was valued at $60,000. However, due to the depression which followed shortly afterward, the property was sold for about $35,000. That's why today Northwestern has both a Russell and a Stimson Hall.

In Dr. Riley's own church there came to his aid a Godly woman who gave much larger sums to Northwestern than any other friend of the school. In her modesty she constantly refused to permit him to bestow any public honor or even mention her name.

Many, many thousands of dollars have come to the school from fundamentalists throughout the entire country who believed in Dr. Riley and what he was doing and knew of the things for which he stood.

For a period of nine years H. B. O. Philpotts acted as Dean of Men in the school, and also as instructor in some of the classes. Upon his resignation he was succeeded by the very popular Bible teacher, Dr. Robert L. Moyer, whose fidelity to the cause of Biblical interpretation, and whose loyal cooperation with the president was one of the prominent factors in producing glorious results.

My own relationship to the school began in 1920. Although not a member of Dr. Riley's church, he had heard of my interest in education and knew that I loved the essential truths for which the Northwestern Bible School stood. He urged me to come and assist in the English department at Northwestern and help to build the curriculum. (There were only 50 students then.) At first I demurred, but his insistence resulted in my teaching some evening classes and in lending other assistance. A little later, however, I decided that with my other duties this work was too arduous and I resigned, only to have the president urge and succeed in taking my full service in behalf of Northwestern—working on the curriculum, taking the headship of the English department and occupying the office of the Dean of Women—a position I've held ever since. In 1933 the Dean of Women married the President!

I shall never forget one day in the spring of 1934. Dr. Riley had been in prayer for several nights. I knew he was seeking God's will in some important matter—but I knew too that it was holy ground and I waited the result. One morning I was amazed, when with jubilant countenance he announced, "We start proceedings today for Northwestern Evangelical Seminary to be added to our Bible Training School." I was nonplussed, and I'm ashamed to say, added, "But where will we get the money?" To which my husband replied in absolute confidence, "That's no concern of mine. God has given me marching orders and He will provide"—and He did.

For a while the Bible School and the Northwestern Evangelical Seminary worked side by side. At that time Dr. Riley had no notion of further additions. (His heart from first to last was primarily in the Bible School for there he felt sufficient instruction in the Word of God could be given to assure the student a firm Biblical foundation.) However, after preaching on many of the great college campuses of the nation, he had the profound conviction that the average college of the day, in which youth was being educated, tended to produce skeptics rather than believers. Believing that such an education was the ruin of promising lives he could not escape the urge to so educate young men and women as to increase rather than to destroy their faith. So after another week of intensive praying and waiting on God for a definite answer, one morning he came out, his face aglow, and announced, "Today we start proceedings for the Northwestern College of Liberal Arts."

On September 22, 1944, the college opened with an enrollment of 26 students. A greatly increased student attendance that fall created another crisis—that of more housing. Our four dormitories were not nearly sufficient. Once more Dr. Riley amazed me. He called in real estate men and set them on the search for nearby purchasable buildings and found not less than a dozen, each of which he personally inspected. He soon faced his board with a recommendation for the purchase of "Homestead" on West 15th Street, also facing Loring Park, a fourteen apartment building containing 68 rooms. On October 20, 1944, "Homestead" became the fifth dormitory of the Northwestern Schools.

Ever on the lookout for loyal teachers and administrators and with the realization that our student body was increasing at a rapid rate, J. Edwin Hartill was called to the Northwestern Schools in the fall of 1944. For eight years he had been the head of the London Bible Institute. In 1944, just before Dr. Moyer passed away, he joined the Northwestern faculty and became Dean of Men.

In 1942, after completing 45 years as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis, Dr. Riley resigned in order to give his full time and every ounce of his energy of his later years to the growing needs of the Northwestern Schools. The day following his resignation from the First Church I was nonplussed by his statement to me that we would drive to St. Paul to consult with an artist relative to preliminary plans for a $250,000 building to be known as Memorial Hall, to be used as the administrative center of the schools. The reason for this was two-fold. First, our close proximity to the First Baptist Church led many to falsely believe we were a Baptist School. Secondly, our continued growth demanded larger quarters. In quick succession came the purchase of property on Yale (including the present infirmary and parking lot) and further property on Harmon. Within two months a financial specialist was engaged, a campaign was planned, and the beautiful property adjacent to our dormitories facing Loring Park was purchased and paid for.

His last two years were spent in planning this building that it might be the center of all Northwestern interests. In quick succession with untiring effort came trustee consultations, financial campaigns, architectural plans. At times the going was rough, yet, with his usual faith, he would quote again and again Isaiah 12:2, "I shall trust and not be afraid for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song." He was deeply concerned as costs mounted; he pleaded for strictest economy. It was a momentous day, when though frail he was able to witness the ground breaking and to dedicate this spot to the glory of God, the spot on which the William Bell Riley memorial now stands. We circled this ground daily as operations began. As they were driving in the piles—he thought fathoms deep—he figured the cost and was irked by any delay.

Then came the cornerstone laying. From his wheel chair he wielded the trowel to add cement to put that in place. From then our daily drive was around the advancing construction. Just two days before God called him home, because medicine had given him a better night, he asked if I didn't think I could get him into the car once more to see the progress. That last time the construction was up to the second floor and it looked as if Northwestern Memorial Hall was to be a reality.

But as interested as he was in the ongoing of the material end of it, his deepest concern now was to find the right man as leader. Night after night he prayed that God would supply the one who would remain loyal to God and to His Word—that the schools might continue aggressively evangelistic, that graduates might have a positive witness.

Some years back he had met a young man from North Carolina, not world-known then, and God seemed to say, "There is your man." Never could he get away from the thought that this young evangelist of the cross should succeed him. When approached, the Carolinian laughed off the suggestion and pleaded his youth. But from that moment my husband was always interested in his goings and comings; checked everything from his pen; and scrutinized his spiritual life. Then he asked for an interview. Never had my husband prayed more than that night before the last visit. He knew his strength was failing. When Mr. Graham entered, Dr. Riley had the open Bible on his bedside table. He pointed to that passage in Samuel, "Thou art the man." Then taking his finger from out the coverlet he pointed it at Mr. Graham and said, "Billy, read this; God has made it plain to me; I shall meet you at the judgment seat with the responsibility of these three schools."

"At a Board meeting held about his couch in the closing days, he voiced in no uncertain sound his desires for the future of Northwestern and said, "Should we waver one iota from the policy of the schools in militant conservatism for the cause of Christ we would perish." So forceful was his appeal to all his coworkers that without his request they rose as one to pledge themselves that an unadulterated presentation of Gospel truths would forever emanate from the halls of Northwestern. It was a solemn meeting, for all knew their leader was very frail and all meant it.

Dr. Riley passed away December 5, 1947, and Mr. Graham immediately became Interim President.

Three hundred thousand dollars had been set aside by Dr. Riley, but as the work progressed, tremendously increased costs in construction far exceeded that amount. It took a great step of faith on the part of Mr. Graham and the Board to sanction the completion of the building. However, the fall of 1948 found us dedicating Memorial Hall, already overcrowded by the student enrollment of that fall. (I shall never forget the parade as the library was personally transferred from Jackson Hall to the new building!)

Years before, in the living room of Twin Lakes Lodge, the Riley home, conferences were held about the possibility of a Northwestern radio station, and application was made in December, 1945. In the summer of 1948 the construction permit was granted, and in February, 1949, KTIS was born—after prodigious effort on the part of Northwestern students, both in manual work relative to the actual construction of the tower, and in united financial assistance.

But with a constantly increasing attendance we were still in need of dormitories. "Hawthorne" was purchased in 1949 as a Freshman men's dormitory. Then "Plymouth" was leased for married students.

For years the Music Department had struggled in the west wing of Fireside, but old "6 South" was creaking under the burden of many years and hard use, and in 1950 was finally sold to the First Baptist Church for a parking lot. (Many a sacred memory was stirred as old Fireside was razed to the ground!) Following that, Northwestern purchased and converted the Unitarian Center at 16th and Harmon into an orthodox Music and Speech building!

Mr. Graham's expanded program of evangelism—Hour of Decision and Television—made it necessary for him in June, 1951, to take the position of Chairman of the Board and to relinquish the office of President to Dr. Paul J. Maddox.

As we look back over these fifty years, back to the very beginning with seven young people desirous of further knowledge of God's Word, back to 1902, when one little school, the Northwestern Bible and Missionary Training School, was officially born and the first property was purchased—one building, "6 South," 35 students, 3 professors, no salaries, no tuition, and back to 1902, with but one missionary and few trained Christian leaders.

... As we look about us today and see hundreds of missionaries doing a work for God on every continent and the isles of the sea, and as we see pastors, colporteurs, Christian leaders in ever increasing numbers. ... As we now view the Northwestern Schools—Bible College, College of Liberal Arts and Theological Seminary with her 6 dormitories, a Music and Speech building, temporary quarters for the Infirmary and Missionary Medicine department, a non-commercial radio station (a station that sends out the gospel, night and day, over AM and FM) and to climax it all, the William Bell Riley Memorial Hall, housing the administrative offices, chapel, classrooms, radio, gym, cafeteria, library—accommodations for 900 students. ...

As we look back to 1902 with no budget, to 1952 when our yearly budget was over $500,000 and we realize our needs today, how grateful we are for Christian people throughout the land who invest in the preparation of students for time and eternity, here in our needy America and around the world. Surely, what hath God wrought!

As we face the untrod future, we cast our eyes "unto the hills from whence cometh our help" and say,

"We'll praise Him for all that is past,
We'll trust Him for all that's to come."

Holding forth the word of life; that that I have not run in vain, neither
I may rejoice in the day of Christ, laboured in vain. PHILIPPIANS 2:16

Officers of Administration

Upon the resignation of Dr. William Graham as president of the board of trustees and Dr. Paul J. Maddox as administrative president, a managerial committee was elected from the board by the members meeting in regular session February 25, 1952. This seven man committee thus became a board of control with full administrative powers being allotted to them. (During the interim which exists before a new president is selected, this group of men will handle all financial, administrative and spiritual matters relating to Northwestern Schools.) Members of the group include: Dr. Martin Nordland, Chairman; Dr. O. A. Look, Acting Chairman of the Board; Victor Chamberlain, Dr. R. V. Clearwaters, Frank Clawson, Per Larson, and Dr. Paul Hendricks.

To meet educational demands and institutional requirements, a reorganization plan has been adopted, known as the "Common Course" plan which has resulted in the establishment of the Bible College, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Theological Seminary. Both the Bible College and College of Liberal Arts offer courses leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree. The Seminary offers a Bachelor of Divinity degree after a three year course in Theology and related subjects.

The "Common Course" plan means that the Bible College and College of Liberal Arts, both on the collegiate level, have basically the principal elements of the first two years in common. During the first two years of both courses there is an interchange of professors and courses, but a tendency to stricter specialization characterizes the upper division of work.

And Ye shall hallow the FIFTIETH year

By J. EDWIN HARTILL

The twenty-third chapter of Leviticus presents a soul-stirring and enrapturing note of hope and inspiration. This was the 50th or Jubilee year and stood immediately connected with the great day of atonement. When the blood of the sacrificial victim was poured out, the trumpet sound of freedom echoed through the hills and valleys of the land of Canaan.

In this Jubilee year of the Northwestern Schools history, the members of the graduating class step forward, following the footsteps of those who have marched before, to sound again the trumpet of emancipation.

Here is a declaration as old as Calvary, for Christ put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. All is done! God was teaching by the shedding of blood on Jewish altars the tremendous fact of substitution. The day of atonement looked forward to innocent blood being shed if the sinner is to be justified. Here is redemption! Jesus Christ endured the Cross, despising the shame. God demanded death, either for the sinner or a substitute. Christ was the Substitute! Here is freedom!

Look at these young men and women! They are on the march! True, the world is on the march today. Robust men, dressed in uniform, have their marching orders. The tramp, tramp, tramp of the armies of godlessness is heard altogether too near our doors.

But the sweetest sound is the marching of Christian graduates as they fill the ranks with eyes focused on the Cross of Christ lifted high.

What a message to proclaim. In the Person and work of the Lord Jesus Christ, there is an infinite fullness, which meets every necessity of man.

This world is uneasy about Jesus Christ. Always there is the haunting suspicion that, after all, maybe He is the Son of God and maybe He did rise from the dead.

In this Jubilee year of Northwestern, we are not proclaiming a new message. In 1902, when Dr. W. B. Riley founded this school, a fearful band of Freshmen was preparing to go forward and strike the world in a head-on collision with the news, "Christ died, arose from the dead, and is coming again!"

Today, after fifty years, Northwestern's message has not changed. A band of crucified and risen men and women, dead to sin and alive unto God, are trained to march into every corner of the earth, not only to sound the trumpet of deliverance through the shed blood of Christ, but also to tell of another trumpet that some day shall sound and not only summon those dead in Christ, but those living, who have put their faith in One Who can REDEEM.

Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not REDEEMED with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot." I Peter 1:18,19.

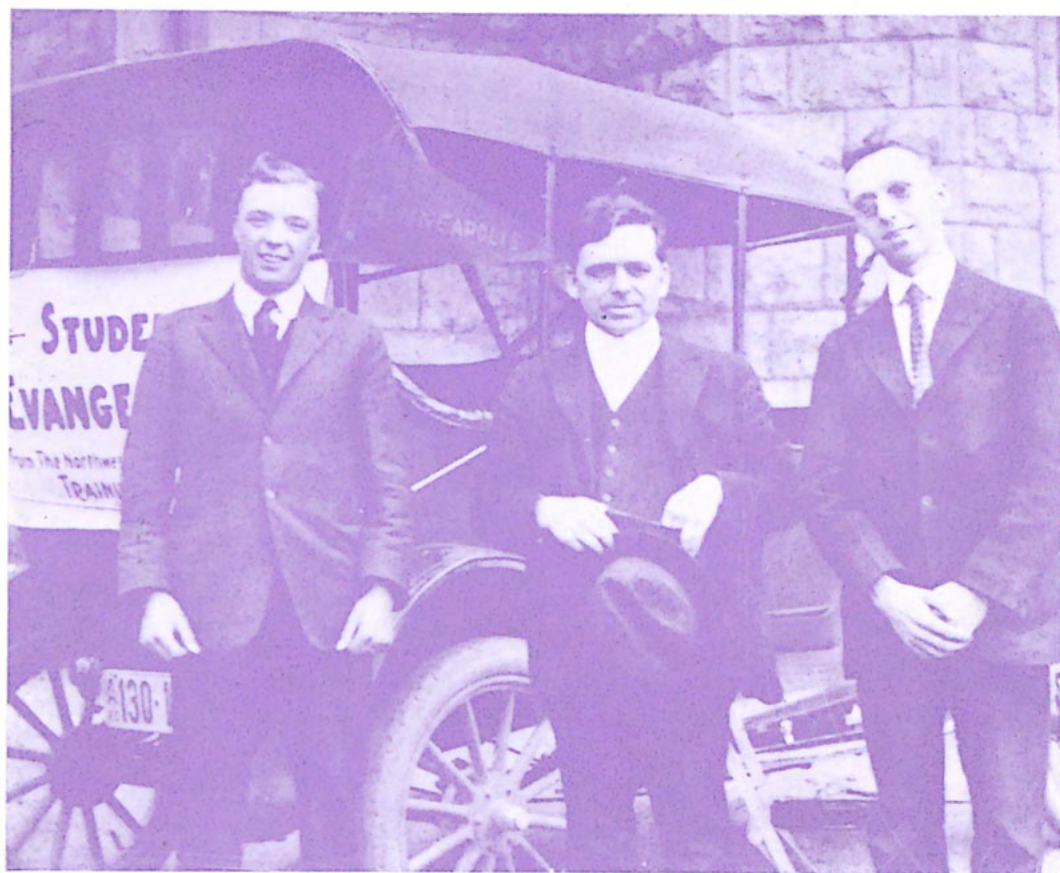

Man's life is full of shadows. They may pass away temporarily, but misty doubts and shadowy fears shroud everything under a blanket of gloom. Human beings are happy only part of the time. Those outside of Christ find themselves in a blackness deeper than midnight!

Is it any wonder then, that we look with great expectation upon these, our Seniors, who will, in this Jubilee year, step forth to preach Salvation and Emancipation?

It's theirs to proclaim and a world's to receive.

And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men. COLOSSIANS 3:23.

ACTIVITIES – ORGANIZATIONS

MUSIC

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

JUBILAIRES

The musical activities at Northwestern play an important part in student life. A large number of the student body participate in some phase of the music program. Band, Orchestra, Choral groups are the center of the activity but there are numerous vocal and instrumental soloists taking part in the program.

WITH A SONG AND A SWORD!

"The High Praises of God In Their Mouth . . ."

A song has "a way" with the heart, making it an ideal medium for expressing the deep truth and emotions of the Christian faith. That is why sacred music receives major emphasis in Northwestern's Music Department. Class instruction, however, covers the entire field of music, training versatile, competent, Christian musicians for professional work such as music education, concert performance, full time Christian service in the church, the field of evangelism, or the mission field. Expression outside formal class work is encouraged through the A Cappella Choir and Choral Ensemble, the Band, and smaller instrumental and vocal ensembles, as well as through numerous student recitals presented during the school year. To further enhance the musical life at Northwestern—several faculty recitals are included in the year's activities.

"And A Two-Edged Sword In Their Hand . . ."

The "Sword of the Spirit," coupled with music, has even greater power where the heart is concerned. In whatever field, however, a student specializes at Northwestern, he is also trained in the fine art of using the Word of God. It is the "Keynote" blending all knowledge into a harmonious whole. Into a discordant world, graduates of Northwestern go forth to battle for God—with a Song and a Sword!

DEBATE TEAM

Forensics

"Resolved that the Federal Government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price control," was the debate question of the year. Finalists in the Bradley University contest were: Shirley Langerak, Extemporaneous and Folktales; Bob Hawkins, Radio; Eugene Soderberg, Discussion; Milton Erway, After-Dinner Speaking. The debate program included many tournaments in the various surrounding states—each time Northwestern's squad making fine showings and captivating many first place titles as well as presenting a Christian spirit. Another phase of Forensics introduced this year for the first time is radio dramatics, producing their own programs, cabled into the KTIS channel.

BARTER

ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN

MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION

Many improvements and expansions have come about in the first fifty years of Northwestern's history. One of the greatest is in the field of Forensics. This year four major plays were presented: "Magnificent Obsession," from the best-seller by Lloyd C. Douglas; "One Foot in Heaven," by Hartzell Spence; "Little Women," from the old favorite by Louisa Mae Alcott, and climaxing the season "Young Lincoln," by Wilbur Braun. The annual Christmas program included a play entitled "Almost an Angel" . . . a delightful comedy.

Recitals offered excellent entertainment to the student body throughout the year. A combined Senior Recital in January was presented by Willard Dalke and Carl Dalton; a full length recital, "Rebecca," was given by Marilyn Clark. The Junior recital included Shirley Langerak, Lorraine Pinkernell and Phyllis Dalton.

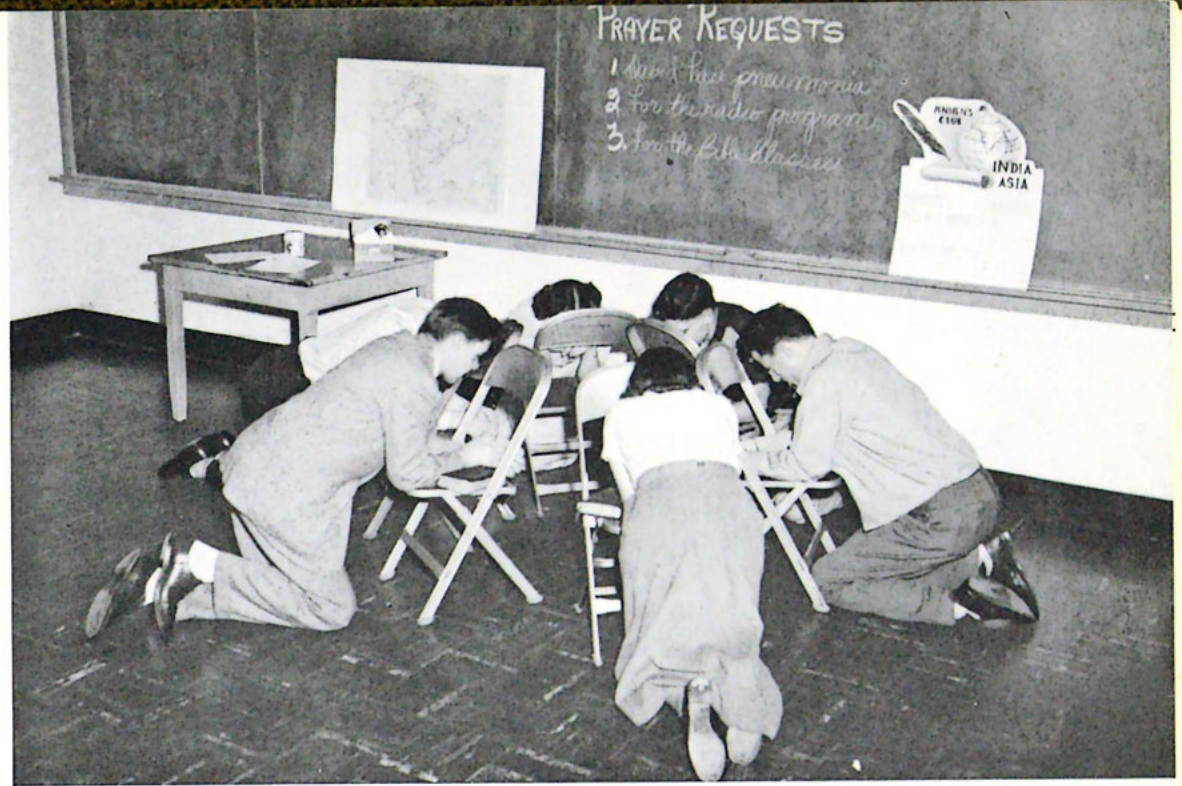

OFFICERS Bob Warren, President; Eugene Soderberg, Vice President; Paul Nelson, Treasurer; Pat Ackerman, Secretary; Mae Koksma, Staff Secretary.

Foreign Mission Fellowship

VISION STAFF Willard Boswell, Editor; Orval Johnson; Mae Koksma, Mardean Bruns, Pat Ackerman, Bob Warren, Fern Robertson, Duane Hatch.

PRAYER BANDS

This is a fellowship of those students in the schools who believe that the Lord has definitely called them to serve on a foreign field, and of those students, who, if lead not to go to a foreign field, will seek to give missions a salient place in their ministry.

The VISION (F.M.F.'s paper), The Hour of Power (a bi-weekly fellowship meeting), the Annual Missionary Conference, and the facilities made available in the F.M.F. Office are instruments used to create within the student body an active world vision. At the same time the Prayer Bands provide opportunity for combined prayer for graduates already on the field.

Every student is a member of the Student Forum; elected class representatives constitute the Student Forum Council. Promoting spiritual and social growth, as well as producing an effective public relations is the purpose of the organization. Throughout the school term, the Student Forum has promoted Tract Nights and prayer services. A receptionist desk, with students acting as receptionists, serves to welcome and assist visitors at Memorial Hall. Various programs, films, and parties are provided throughout the school year, supplementing the two annual social events: the Faculty-Forum game, and the All-School picnic. In all activities it is the aim of the Student Forum to honor the Lord and seek His blessing for Northwestern Schools.

Student Forum

A group of young men in Northwestern who, in preparing for the Lord's work, have integrated a new program "that men may know Christ through us" with bi-monthly meetings. Gospel teams have been organized fulfilling regular assignments each week in the Minneapolis area.

Two retreats have been held serving as inspiration and spiritual refreshing. Messages were given by members of the faculty, pastors, laymen, foreign missionaries and doctors.

Gospel Ministers Club

International Club

The International Club is made up of students who come to us from foreign countries: Omar Barocio, Mexico; James Chambers, Scotland; David Harrison, Scotland; Ourania Kalfoglau, Greece; Alexander Koulakoff, France; Vivian Laird, Ireland; George Lau, Gilbert Islands; George McCracken, Ireland; Margaret Robertson, Scotland; Myra Wong, China; Einar Sorensen, Denmark; Horst Moehring, Germany; Herman Beaver, Canada; Dick Buhler, Canada; Melba Dye, Canada; Alfred Erickson, Canada; Phyllis Erickson, Canada; Eunice Erickson, Canada; Shirley Erickson, Canada; Joan Lock, Canada; Eunice Murray, Canada; Jamie Ney, Canada; Bill Warner, Canada; Keith Whiticar, Canada. The faculty advisor is Dean William Henderson.

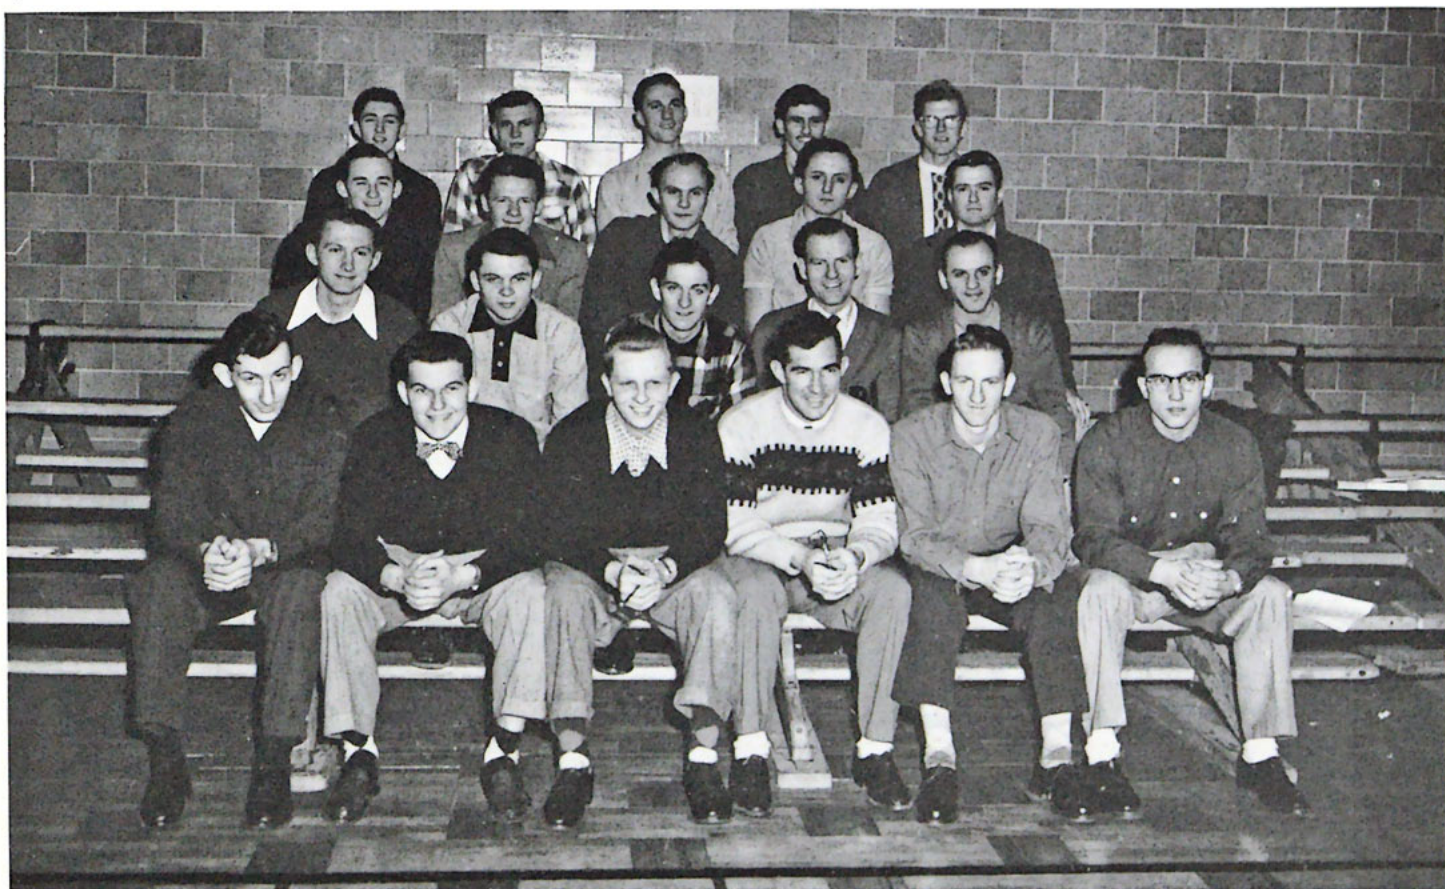

What is the "N" club? It is composed of letter winners in the various fields of sports, with a three-fold primary purpose: first, to further athletics at Northwestern; second, to be a medium for witnessing and testimony; third, to provide a competitive means in the development of co-ordination and cooperation. The secondary purpose is for fellowship with those who are of like philosophy and interests.

Meetings include discussions of ways and methods for furthering athletics and interest within the school and of serving the students in this capacity. During the year the club has lectures by various speakers and also films on athletics. The sale of sweatshirts, "T" shirts, windbreakers, pennants and etc. is sponsored by the "N" Club members.

The officers of the 1951-52 season are as follows: Whitey Benson, President; Stan Franklin, Secretary; Earl Larson, Treasurer.

"N" Club

Athletics

Sports play a vital part in the curriculum of Northwestern's student body. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." With this scriptural admonition Northwestern's athletic program is geared to develop strong and healthy bodies for the glory of God.

Veterans Field was again the scene where the Eagles played host to the visiting nines. As the warm spring breeze lifted the dust from the diamond and the players' spikes were hung up, the season marked another milestone in Northwestern's athletic program.

Constant practice and the determination to win brought forth a rich harvest. Such stalwarts as Dick Smith, Vernon Hintermeyer, Ted Stone, Warren Benson, Stan Franklin and Gundy Habich enabled the Eagles to emerge victorious.

Baseball

1951 - 1952

Baseball, completing its sixth year of intercollegiate participation, maintains a high place in Northwestern's athletic program. The great "American Sport" offers a real challenge to the average college athlete, and despite the "opposition" of the weatherman a full schedule is played each year.

The caliber of ball played is generally improving from year to year, and the past two seasons have been highly successful. More spectator interest has been shown this past year than is usual for this deserving sport.

Basketball

During the past basketball season the Northwestern "Eagles" played their toughest schedule and traveled farther than in any other season. Basketball is Northwestern's "major" sport as well as the oldest. There has been a steady increase in spectator as well as player interest. The season just finished has been a reasonably successful one and definite progress has been realized in the sport.

Players come from as far west as Oregon and as far east as New York and as far south as Arkansas. Four of the five starters will be missing from next year's squad but with the return of the remaining letter-winners and some anticipated "B" squad help, along with entirely new material, the future for basketball appears bright.

During the past two years, several home games have been broadcast from Moyer Gym over our own radio station, KTIS.

A regular "B" squad schedule was inaugurated this year, making it possible for more fellows to participate in competitive basketball and preparing men for Varsity play in the future.

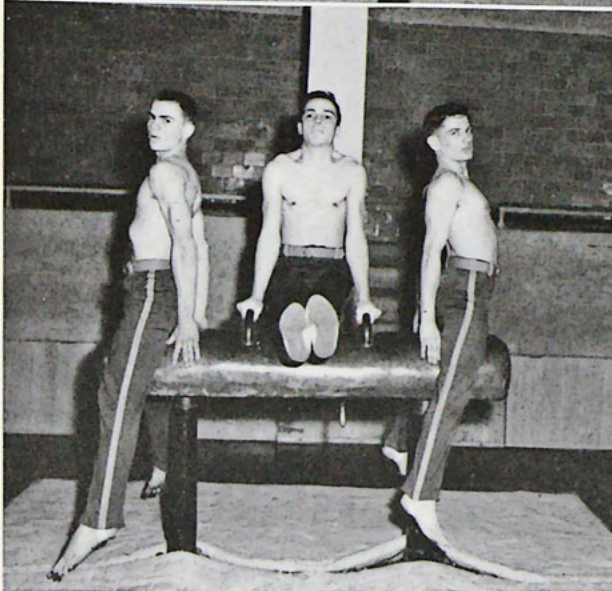

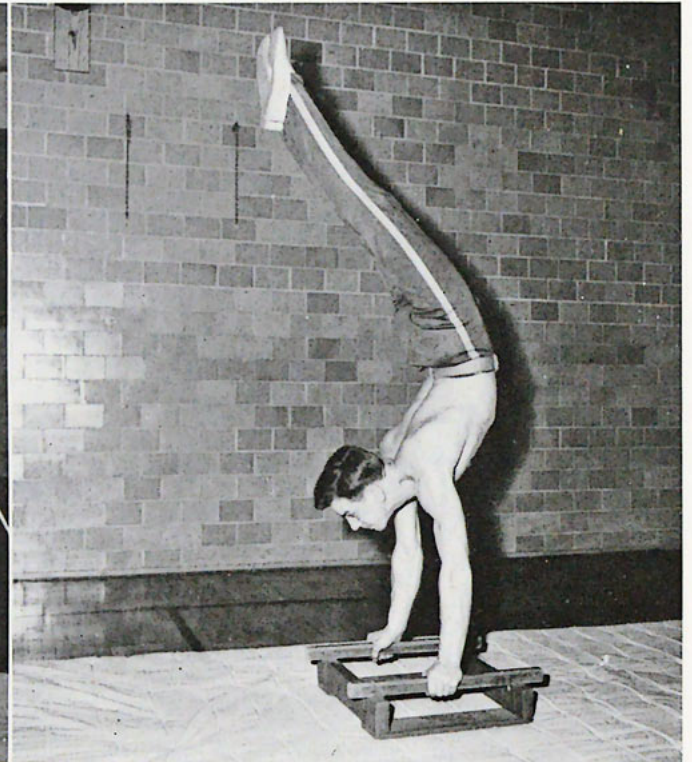

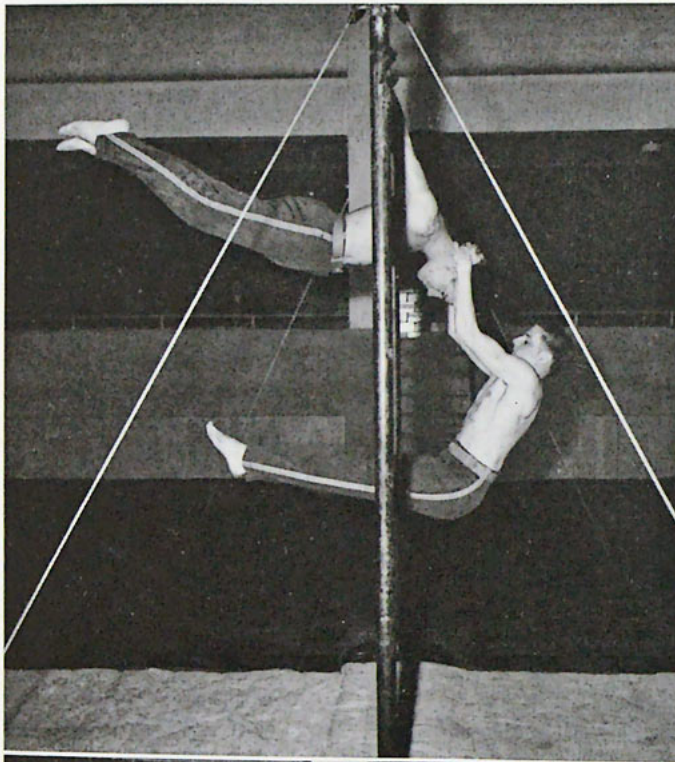

Basketball as an intercollegiate sport has "grown-up" at Northwestern.

Gymnastics

Tennis - - - Cheerleaders

This year's tennis team is comprised of Captain Dick Manning, Denny Repko, and Vern Betsch. With this trio the standard of play which is so typical of Northwestern teams was raised to its highest level.

At every game may be found the booster team, eager and ready to lead the enthusiastic spectators in rousing cheers for the Northwestern teams. This year's team is led by Captain Duane Orn, assisted by: Lawrence Lambert, Ralph Beckstrom, Carolyn Reitz and Shirley Wyjack.

Golf

Captain Bruce Brown, Jack Markey, Floyd Johnson, Lynn Holm, Vernon Blikstad, Herb Archibald.

Intramurals

The intramural sports program has gained in popularity in the past few years and now includes a wide variety of sports including basketball, fleetball, softball, badminton, ping-pong and volleyball. A large section of the student body participates in this program.

The intramural season runs through the entire school year, affording year around activities. The program encourages team, dual, and individual sport participation, and in some areas, such as badminton and ping-pong, mixed matches are played. Appropriate plaques and awards are given the winners.

Girls' Athletics

In recent years the trend in athletics for the girls has taken the upward look more than ever. The 1951 fall term got underway with the organization of the various classes all decked out in their "suits of blue" to what was a very promising start for the entire season.

The calendar of events for the 1951-52 season has included class organization by use of squads and squad leaders, various marching drills, posture and calisthenics, class volleyball, basketball, and games of low organization, among them tenequoit. Shuffle-board and badminton were held forth in the various classes. During the class period each girl was given an opportunity to instruct the other class members in the teaching method, procedure and performance of a chosen game.

Basketball

The Women's Varsity Basketball Team of Northwestern Schools participated in the top division of the Park Board League. Teams included Augsburg, University of Minnesota, Honeywell and V.F.W.

The season started with three returning veterans—Myrna Brant, Lelia Foote, and Faith Krieder. New members were Lolita Lindsay, Betty Sarbaugh, Eunice Cowles, Jewell Lindsley, Mary Cook, Violet Ihde, Orla Brant and Wilma Veemer. Muriel Harden was the manager of the team with Hazel Lehn coaching.

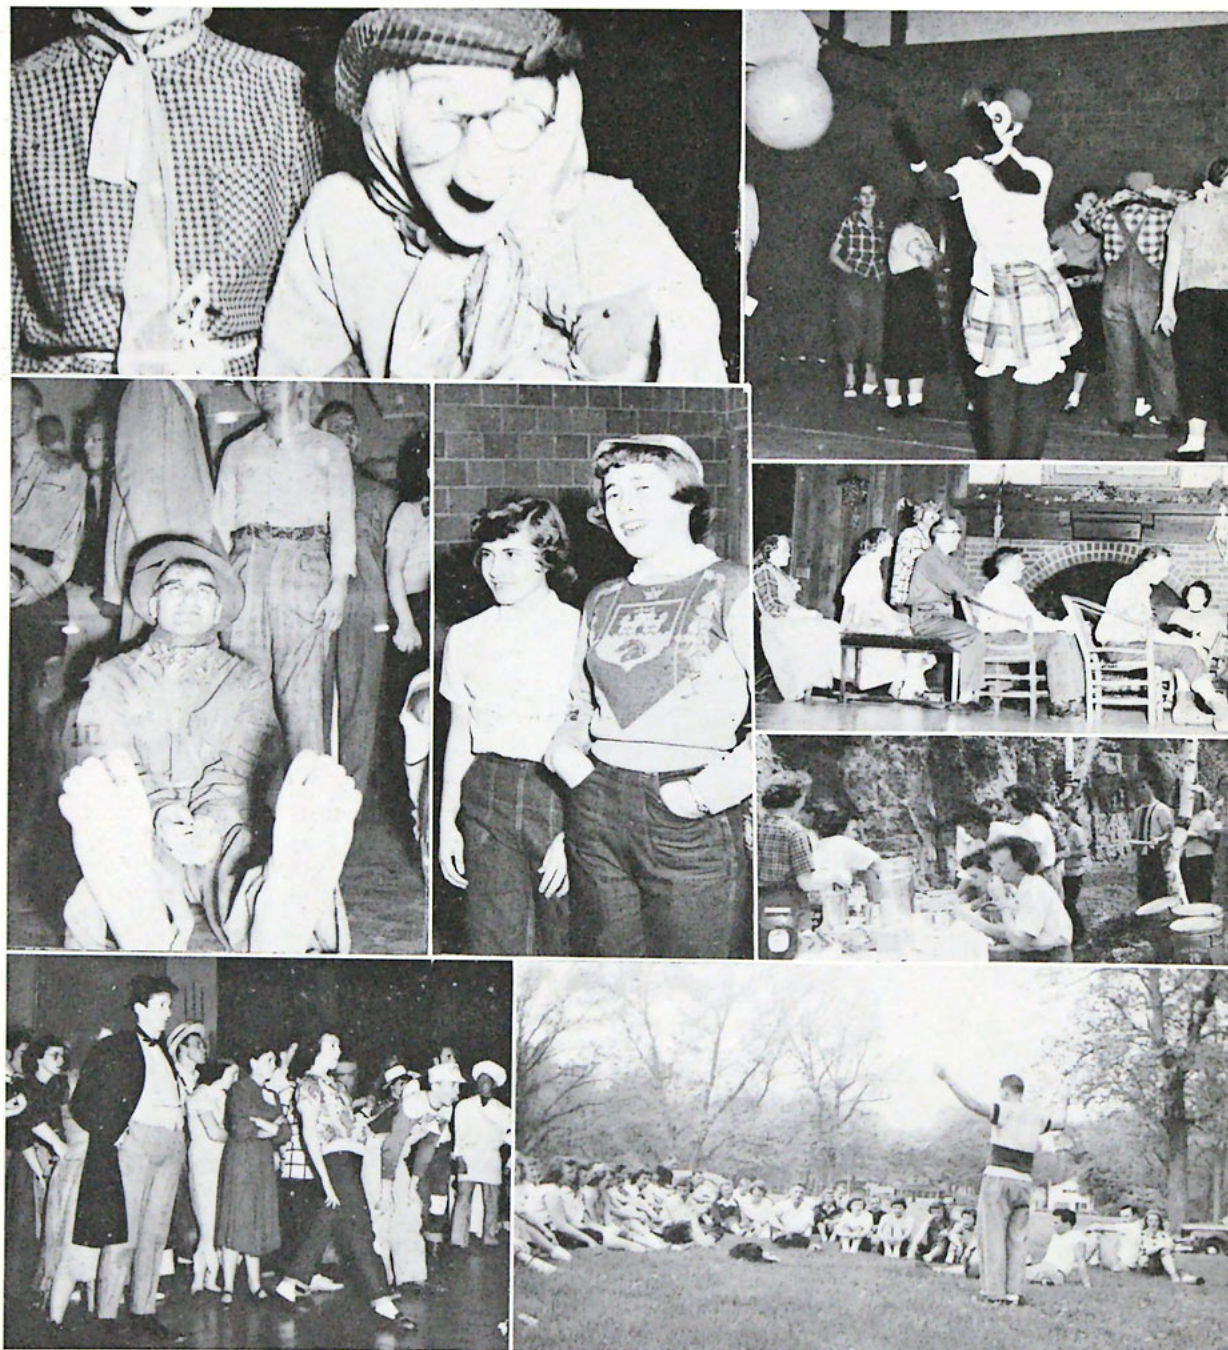

At the beginning of the season, signs of inexperience were evidenced, but as the season progressed the squad rapidly improved and finished the season as one of the outstanding teams.

The missionary conference held each year between the two semester periods is a high point in Northwestern's student activities. Representatives of all the major mission boards establish headquarters at the school for counsel and instruction of prospective missionary candidates. Day sessions for the conference are held in Memorial Hall with all night meetings being held in the First Baptist Church to better accommodate the large crowd who attend this annual affair. Dr. Harry Stam, head of Northwestern's Mission department, serves as general chairman.

Missionary Conference

"Consider Him . . ."

Bible students from all over the upper midwest gathered for a week last summer at Mission Farms, Medicine Lake, for the twenty-second annual Northwestern Schools Bible Conference, to "Consider Him."

Under the direction of Dr. Edward D. Simpson, the conference listed such speakers as Howard Butt, Dr. John Wimbish, Dr. T. W. Wilson, Dr. G. Allen Fleece, and Don Hoke. Special features included the Christian Writers Institute, a Christian Education Workshop, Junior Camp, and Youth Camp.

Christ-centered messages refreshed and encouraged many alumni and friends, who found the fellowship and inspiration to be the spiritual tonic needed to send them back to their fields of endeavor better equipped to serve Him.

Let's Eat

The very nature of Northwestern Schools, both in its birth and in its life, has been that of winning men everywhere for Christ. Through these many years God has given us a large and ever enlarging program of Christian work. The chairman of the Department, LeRoy Gager, has given it leadership for eight years. He is ably assisted by Forrest "Jiggs" Williams '50, Ruth Hatcher '49, and Bernadine Weldon.

Northwestern Schools, without its active and aggressive program of Christian work, would approximate a clock without hands. It would be merely a functioning machine without aim or direction. This phase of Northwestern has as glorious a past as any department of the school. Out of the travail of hard work and spiritual vision was born a program of Daily Vacation Bible School, Summer Evangelism, and the Christian work, which is done week by week and has attracted students and brought untold blessing across the world.

Practical Work Department

The Pilot is the official publication of the school. In its pages are to be found the finest of Christian literature from the pens of outstanding Christian leaders of America as well as in the continent. Instructional material of value to the Sunday School teacher, the lay worker, and Christians in all fields of endeavor is to be found in the magazine.

The Pilot

Academics

Bible Department

The objectives of the Bible Department arise from the belief that Jesus Christ is the truth, and that all true education revolves around Him as its pivotal and focal point. Since the Scriptures are His chief mode of self-revelation, the department seeks to ground the student in the Word of God, to train the student in the use of the Word, and to establish the living Word as the goal of all learning. To accomplish these purposes, the department offers a thorough study of the Scriptures both in English and in Greek, a training in synoptic, analytic, exegetic, doctrinal and expository use of the Bible, practice in bringing the power of the Gospel to bear upon the lives of men, and an opportunity for the Word to become a personal possession of each student that he may in turn become a living epistle, known and read of men, glorifying to God.

Secretarial Department

A well rounded course in commercial education is presented in the Bible College under the direction of Mrs. Helen Baxter. The curriculum includes work in beginning and advanced shorthand, beginning and advanced typing, bookkeeping, office procedure and an interesting course in business methods. Participants in this area of study find opportunities for service in the secular field as well as in the service of churches and denominational office.

Christian

Education

Department

Four generations of truth: "... Me ... thou ... faithful men ... others ...". And thus the Christian message has been passed down to us in much the same way a baton is passed from one member of a relay team to another. Today we hold it out to another generation.

The link between our matchless message and the men for whom it was meant is METHOD. It is the purpose of the Christian Education Division to train in the use of latest methods, that the same old message of life in Christ may reach the greatest number in need.

Missionaries, pastors, education directors, teachers, and laymen have found methods as essential as message to complete the "race that is set before us."

Music Department

The department of music under the chairman, William B. Berntsen, presents Bachelor of Arts degrees in Music Theory, Applied Music, Sacred Music, Piano, Voice, Composition, Music Education and Instrumental Music.

Courses in this area have been designed to meet the needs of the present day from the standpoint of music in worship, music in evangelism, and music education. Faculty and student recitals are presented periodically during each school year.

In the instrumental field, the school band provides practical experience for the students while the choral groups offer training to students in the field of choral technique and literature.

Private lessons are offered in all fields including piano, voice, and organ. Practice rooms are available for students as are two organs located in the schools.

Missions Department

Missionary hygiene, survey, principles and practice, plus a study of contemporary missions, form a basic part of the department of Missions. Correlated with these courses is additional work offered in medical lecture courses, and anthropology. The Bible College graduate in the division of Missions is adequately prepared for His service on the fields of the world.

Missionary Medicine Department

Candidates for the mission field may take a one year post-graduate course in the department of missionary medicine. The work here is uniquely designed for pioneer work in primitive areas where medical aid is not available. Prominent physicians, surgeons, and dentists conduct the lecture courses in this division of work.

Science Department

The department of natural science includes courses in the inorganic and organic sciences, setting forth the architecture of the universe, and relating man to his place in that universe. It is the endeavor of instructors in this department to consistently present the power of the Creator in establishing and maintaining the universe and to set forth the Christian testimony as it relates to the world of science.

Speech Department

Under the able leadership of Mark Lee, chairman of the department, students in the school may study for a major in the speech field or may take elective courses to accompany their work in other academic fields. Skillful use of the technique of speech is the major emphasis in this department.

During the school year several plays are presented by the department in the auditorium of the Fine Arts Building. Forensic work including debate, oratory, declamations, and after-dinner speaking is encouraged providing many students with opportunities to compete with competition from the largest colleges and universities in the United States.

Education Department

Psychology Department

Emphasis is being placed on the professional training of teachers in the elementary field. Courses have been offered in methods, procedure, observation and practice-teaching to equip the student for service in this field or to introduce him to the profession with a view toward further graduate study. Opportunity for practice teaching was offered by Hennepin County Schools. The practicum type of course which provides for intensive study in the block program of work to provide professional training is offered.

Psychology courses are designed for the student who desires to complete work in a major in this field and in correlating work with other departments and division requirements. Offered by this department are courses in the areas of social and education psychology, mental hygiene, applied and experimental psychology as well as a study of the psychology of Christian education. The aim of the department is to produce a desire for understanding one's self and one's fellowmen that the service he renders may be more effective.

A well-rounded complete course in the history department is offered to students in this area. This department headed by Professor John E. Dahlin includes in its course of study work in the field of American, Latin American, English, Ancient and Medieval history along with specialized courses in the realm of great movements such as the Renaissance and Reformation.

History Department

English Department

Language Department

Included in the English department under the direction of Mrs. Jean Makas are courses dealing with 17th and 18th century English literature, American literature, Great Books, courses dealing with the works of great authors and poets, in addition to the functional courses in English composition, journalism, and radio writing. Course offerings are complete and varied, providing opportunity for study in many related fields.

To develop understanding and appreciation of the languages and literatures of other cultures is the primary objective of the study of modern languages. To this end emphasis is laid on the written and spoken language as well as the basic facts in sociological, historical, and literary backgrounds of the people. This study of language is of particular value also to those entering missionary work, and it may shorten or eliminate time spent in language training.

Northwestern Theological Seminary

The Northwestern Theological Seminary was founded in 1935 to meet the need for an adequately trained ministry. The seminary emphasizes the exegetical study of the Old and New Testament in the original languages together with thorough consideration of the other theological disciplines including Systematic, Historical and Practical Theology.

The life of a Seminary student is a busy one, for many of them have part-time jobs besides their studies.

Seminary Chapel is a time of Spiritual refreshing as well as a time for decisions.

Even the wives help their husbands with young people's work during their Student-Pastor days.

A Greek Class in an informal atmosphere.

In words and songs, the Gospel Message is sent out over Northwestern's Radio Station KTIS.

NORTHWESTERN SEMINARY

BY DR. VOJTA

Northwestern Seminary was the second school founded in 1935 by Dr. W. B. Riley, its president. After a long period of study of the situation among the pastorless churches, Dr. Riley felt that there was an urgent need for a fundamental and evangelical seminary that would train young ministers for vacant pulpits in various fundamental denominations.

Northwestern Seminary is offering three different types of degrees—Bachelor of Divinity, Master of Theology and Doctor of Theology. Its program is of a very high quality and its standing is on a very high level. A number of educators and theologians across the nation have indicated that Northwestern Seminary is standing scholastically on a par with leading seminaries and, likewise, its spiritual level, doctrinal standing and evangelical fervor are indeed unmatched.

The professors of our Seminary are marvelously qualified for their own work. Hebrew is being taught by a converted Hebrew gentleman who has a wonderful command of the Old Testament, and the Hebrew language is native with him. Greek is taught by our own well-qualified Prof. Paul L. Kaufman who, for a number of years, has proved to be an outstanding scholar at the Seminary. Likewise, the New Testament is being taught by Dr. E. Mattson, a quiet man who is deeply rooted in the knowledge of the Scriptures. Dr. R. V. Clearwaters, who was one of the closest associates of Dr. Riley, is unsurpassed in Homiletics and Pastoral Theology as one of our Christian statesmen. In vain our Seminary would have to look for a more able Theologian and Historian than our Dr. George Carlson. Dr. Erick Paulsen is very ably teaching in the elective field and is ably handling the Presbyterian Polity for Presbyterian students.

So, every major denomination is getting attention and students here are trained in denominational politics and other subjects by well-equipped men. Besides the very practical program in our Seminary, guidance is being given to students who are training for the United States Chaplaincy in the United States Army.

KTIS The Radio Voice of Northwestern Schools

Loren Bridges, Manager

On February 7, 1949, KTIS produced its first program over the assigned frequency of 900 kilocycles, operating with 1000 watts power. Since that time, this "voice" of Northwestern Schools has ministered to thousands of people in its listening area. KTIS has been bringing with its sister station KTIS - F.M. the Word of Life consistently into the homes, hospitals, and hearts of its listeners.

Out at the Transmitter

Clarence LaBonte, Chief Engineer
Roy Almen — Dave Brush — Gene Smith

Pictured on the preceding pages are the individuals and groups who help to make up the program schedule of KTIS and KTIS-FM. These stations carry all of the major national programs of spiritual benefit. The non-denominational status is illustrated in a study of the programs presented by many different religious groups. The criteria for selection and acceptance of programs is on the basis of evangelical appeal in accordance with the policy of the station and the schools.

Pencils, books, paper, together with supplies for the Christian worker, as well as the student, are offered at Northwestern Schools Book Store. Housed in Memorial Hall, the bookstore offers a mail service to the Alumni and friends of the school. Ray Prillwitz, manager, is assisted by Ardis Attoe and Gerald Armstrong.

At all times the Bookstore is a bee-hive of activity where students are buying books they need and browsing through Christian literature of the latest publication.

ALUMNI DIRECTORY

Anyone who has ever compiled a list of alumni realizes what a herculean task it is to secure the correct addresses. Any omissions or errors are sincerely regretted, but we have spent time and money to make the list as accurate as possible. We would appreciate hearing from anyone who can either supply an address or correct an error. We have not attempted to include those who have not graduated, although a few such names may have slipped in. We have not indicated the school from which a person has graduated; however, if he has completed work in more than one school, the year indicated is that of the last one attended.

In less than nine years, CBFMS has sent more than 250 missionaries to ten fields—missionaries who are thoroughly trained evangelists, doctors, nurses, and teachers who have a genuine passion to win the lost for Christ. They go forth to build self-supporting, self-propagating churches and to train Christian leaders to evangelize their own people.

- EVANGELICAL IN THEOLOGY
- PROGRESSIVE IN ACTION
- EVANGELISTIC IN EMPHASIS
- BUSINESS-LIKE IN METHOD

Write for complete information regarding support of missionaries, missionary qualifications, missionary helps for the local church, available missionary films, etc.
